NASHVILLE PUBLIC LIBRARY LAUNCHES NASHVILLE VOICES CAMPAIGN

Library to All Nashvillians: It's Time to Honor Women of All Experiences

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Nashville Public Library wants to honor women of all experiences, and they're asking for the city's help.

Now until Sept. 30, the Library will collect stories about women of all experiences and share these testimonials throughout 2022 as part of its Nashville Voices series.

The initiative — launched on today's 102nd anniversary since the ratification of the 19th Amendment — also shines a light on NPL's Votes for Women permanent exhibit.

"Every day, we're able to see the impact that so many extraordinary women have on the city of Nashville," "No woman is actually 'ordinary.' The amazing women of all experiences who make a difference in our lives might not live in the public eye, but we can change that," Nashville Public Library Interim Director Terri Luke said.

Tell us about an amazing woman and get more information on the Library's website.

About Votes for Women

The Votes for Women Room was created to mark the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. This permanent exhibit explores a range of topics surrounding democracy, political movements, and women's role in society through videos, interactive exhibits, a timeline, and interpretative panels.
